Now he spends no more than 100 yuan on each item of clothing. “As long as the clothes are suitable to wear, this is fine.”

“I hope to realize maximum happiness through minimum spending. As luxury food and brand-name clothing cannot increase my happiness, why not satisfy myself by spending less for the same amount of happiness?” He said.

Ma Yuan, 36, a college teacher in Shanxi province, began saving money a year ago. She wants to save money for advanced studies and her family expects to travel.

She stopped buying well-known brands of make-up—using cheaper products instead. Ma also recycled empty boxes, cut back on dining out, and reduced the number of unnecessary purchases.

“While buying may bring short happiness, I have discovered that living a more frugal (节俭的) lifestyle can lead to a sense of satisfaction,” she said. “I have many dreams that require financial support. By controlling and reducing my spending, I am able to bring those dreams closer to reality.”

It’s a good idea to have a certain amount of money saved for better use in the future.

C

We all enjoy being part of a group—there’s no better work than teamwork, right? Actually, I disagree. Teamwork can be hard. In fact, it was so difficult that I left my office job and started working from home on my own. It’s a much better fit for me, and it has made me think about why teamwork can make our jobs harder rather than easier.

Personalities can make teamwork difficult. There’s often someone on the team that puts their needs first. The team often goes along with this person, whose ideas might not be the best, just the loudest. Just one difficult personality can make teamwork hard. Combining (结合) several challenging personality types is even harder.

Not having enough time together can also make teamwork challenging. To successfully work as a team, you need time together—and lots of it.

A final reason why teamwork is difficult is that there’s often no training on how to work on a team. You can’t just put people in a room and expect them to work well with each other. You need to build trust with your team members.

Teamwork can be hard, but working alone has its challenges, too. When I have a great idea, I don’t have anyone to share it with to see if it really is a great idea. Don’t get me wrong—I still like my team of one and enjoy making all of the important decisions by myself. But now I realize what was wrong with the teamwork I did in the past and how good teamwork could be if done correctly. And that’s useful information because one day I might want to turn my ME TEAM into a WE TEAM.

36. Why did the writer choose to work from home on his own?

- A. To keep himself busier.
- B. To keep himself healthier.
- C. To make his job easier
- D. To make his team harder.

37. Which of the following makes teamwork difficult?

- A. Strong personalities.
- B. Lots of teamwork time.
- C. Challenging ideas.
- D. More training on teamwork.

38. What do you need to do if you want to work on a team?

- A. You need to work with others in a room.
- B. You need to build trust with your team members.
- C. You just need to make all decisions by yourself.
- D. You need to have different ideas with your team members.

39. What can we learn from the last paragraph?

- A. A WE TEAM has hardly any advantages.
- B. A ME TEAM needs a lot of IT engineers.
- C. A ME TEAM has no challenges for the writer.
- D. A WE TEAM may be the writer’s choice one day.

40. What is the purpose of the passage?

- A. To show the advantages of teamwork.
- B. To explain the difficulties of teamwork.
- C. To introduce the influence of teamwork.
- D. To tell the importance of teamwork.
