Life is full of unexpected surprises. Paul was 71 years old and came from England. He liked using a 3D printer to make models.

One day, while Paul was searching for something online, he saw a red car on a website. It was his father's favorite car made in the 1950s. He felt so surprised.

The car brought Paul back to the "good old days". When he was a child, his dad always drove him around London. He sat in the back seat of the red car excitedly. When he went abroad to work, this car took him away from home to say goodbye to his father. To his surprise, many years later, the car showed up online!

Paul decided to buy the car. With his son's help, he bought it. It was a really difficult job to repair the car because it was old and broken. But Paul didn't give up. He spent a long time repairing it. After he tried many times, he finally made the car as good as it used to be with the 3D printer. Paul drove it here and there.

Paul said driving the old car reminded him of his father. The car was seen as a connection between his father and him. It was a treasure for him from the past.

31. Where did Paul see his father's favorite car?

- A. On a website. B. In a market. C. In a car repair shop D. In a factory.

32. When did Paul's dad always drive him around London?

- A. During his middle school. B. During his childhood.
B. During his college years. D. During his working period.

33. Why was it a difficult job to repair the car?

- A. Because it was his father's car. B. Because it was made in the 1950s.
C. Because it was old and broken. D. Because it was bought from a man.

34. The car was a treasure for Paul because _____.

- A. the car was seen as a connection between his father and him
B. the car was as good as it used to be
C. he likes using a 3D printer to make models
D. he spent a long time repairing it

35. What's the best title of the text?

- A. 3D Printing Technology B. Shopping Online
C. Travelling Abroad D. Father's Favorite Car

Do you ever find yourself standing in front of rubbish bins, not sure whether the piece of waste in your hand is recyclable or not? To solve this problem, four Hong Kong high school students have invented a smart rubbish bin that uses AI to sort the waste. The students named the bin Waste Collection Point.

Connected to a computer, the bin uses a camera to tell the kind of the waste and sorts it into plastic, paper, glass, or other kinds. To make sure the bin can sort waste correctly, the team tested every product in the school shop and took at least 500 pictures of each one.

The idea of the smart bin was born two years ago. At that time, people from the city crowded into their village because of the COVID-19. They left behind a lot of rubbish and caused more pollution.

"All the bins were full, and there was even rubbish on the mountain," the students recalled. "Every weekend, we had to join the villagers in picking up the waste."

The students decided to develop a special recycling bin that would encourage people to protect the environment. Although school ended at 2 pm, the team would continue to work on their invention until 6 or 7 pm at school. Even when their school was closed, they would still meet and work together online.

It will be easier than ever for people to recycle and protect the environment when Waste Collection Point is used widely in the city.
